

Leukemia & Lymphoma Foundation

Dr Lydia Seong is a registered doctor in Singapore. She specializes in Public Health and has a keen interest in Non-Profit Organisations, Eldercare and Palliative care.

Lydia has extensive experience in aged care, having worked on policies and programme development in government and the charity sectors.

She is one of the founding members of Leukemia and Lymphoma Foundation LLF, a registered Institution of Public Character in Singapore. In 2014, Lydia joined the Management team and became LLF's first CEO. Lydia is also an adjunct lecturer in the Saw Swee Hock School of Public Health and enjoys sharing her knowledge and expertise with undergraduate and postgraduate students on Public Health and Ageing.

